

Transplant donors are generous individuals who give a part of their body to another human being. In many cases, their donation saves the life of the recipient or helps the recipient enjoy a much higher standard of living. fat cells stem cells